ISS JULIA NAGL returned home yesterday after a successful tour of the eastern states as leading woman in the eastern company,

Her friends are justly proud of her success, for she received her entire education in Omaha and at the state university. While she was in the Omaha High school and also at the university, Miss Nagl had prominent roles in all of the school theatricals. Besides this she was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa for scholarship.

Speaking of her work for next year, Miss Nagl has been offered the leading role in a new production which will open on Broadway in October. She will rest in Omaha until August 1, and then return to New York to play to the public until the rehearsals are well under way and the managers are themselves satisfied with everything and everyone concerned. Miss Nagi had an interview last week with Dr. Broadhurst, author of "Bought and Paid For," and he was much interested in her work and
